MAIN LINE CHAMBER EVP & COO BECOMES A PART OF TWO INFLUENTIAL WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

WAYNE, PA. – January 13, 2011 – Eileen Connolly-Robbins, Executive Vice President & Chief Operating Officer of The Main Line Chamber of Commerce, continues to make her mark on the community by recently being appointed to the Board of Directors of the Women's Resource Center and becoming a member of the Forum of Executive Women.

Both of these organizations align with Connolly-Robbins' personal beliefs as well as the mission of the organization that she founded through The Main Line Chamber of Commerce, The Main Line Society of Professional Women (SPW). SPW helps women grow personally and professionally, encouraging them to make the greatest possible contributions in the workplace and the community.

"I am so proud to be a part of these two significant organizations," says Connolly-Robbins. "As a representative of The Main Line Chamber of Commerce, I want to support community organizations, and I look forward to working together to empower and expand the influence of women in the region."

The Women's Resource Center is a community organization committed to supporting women, strengthening families and building communities through referral, counseling, legal and educational services. Located in Wayne, they provide services to more than 4,000 women and girls annually in the five-county Philadelphia area. Connolly-Robbins unites with a dedicated Board, working to empower women to help them lead healthier, more fulfilled lives and improve our communities.

The Forum of Executive Women works actively to leverage the power of women executives in the Greater Philadelphia region. Their goals are to expand the impact and influence of women leaders. Connolly-Robbins joins an elite group of women who come together to exchange views that grow and strengthen their relationships and inspire progress toward a world in which both genders share an equal place in leadership, policy and decision making.
